Franchia was conceived out of our desire to share the knowledge we gained from our personal journey to live a more balanced and healthy life. This journey brought as back to our naive roots in Korea where we met a spiritual master who showed us the traditional Korean Tea Ceremony. Impressed by the beauty and elgance de displayed while preparing tea, we became students of the ancient art of tea drinking, or tea tao, a tradition started centuries ago in China, Korea, and Jajan that encompasses the spiritual and meditative aspects of tea time. From these beginnings, we decided to create a tea house where people could experience the rich tea culture of Korea and benefit from the peace of mind that comes naturally from drinking tea.

The name Franchia means free, lavish and generous. We hope that through Franchia people will enjoy taking 'tea time' out of their hectic daily life and experience the tranquility that comes from gaining freedom from the stresses of modern living and inspire generosity that comes with sharing tea with others.

EATS

By Sylvia Carter

RANK'S IS THE HOMEY, cozy, old-fashioned, sensibly-priced kind of Italian place that you probably thought you could find only in the outer boroughs these days.
The waitresses exude good cheer and always try to save you money. The busboy attentively refills the water glasses. Frank Pino, the owner, offers a smashingly good Spanish wine for something like $16 a bottle. You don't often get treated this well in expensive restaurants. And half the time, you don't get food this good, either.

In truth, places like Frank's are hard to find anywhere anymore. (It's been a lucky week, though.
See BQ Eats in Fank'are Sunday for another very good Italian restaurant, in Brooklyn, that costa more but is worth it.)
So when my friend Joan called to tell me about the incredible dinner she and her husband Archie had eaten at Frank's, $13.95 per (including wine), I met her there at the next available lunch hour.
From the attreet, Frank's looks like a pizzeria, and in fact, you can get good pizza at Frank's. Tony Fabre, who has been at Frank's for 16 years, says, 'I work all over, but I'm as specialized in pizza. 'If you waik past the front counter and pizza ovens, you'll find a dining room — billed on the menu as the "country Italian dining room" — with tables covered in checkered cloths. Here, as Joan quipped, you can always "see what the boys in the back room are having." Some of "the boys," and the women, too, are elderly touttomers. Some eat alone, some come as couples, but all are made to feel comfortable and all get a kindly word from Hortensia. Frank's wife.
Many of these regulars have the daily specials, and you should, too.

At lunch time, for around $6, you can get a pesta with horecool, and linguine alla amatricians, in a hearty to mato sauce fortified with pancetta—that's Italian bacon — and onions. Other days, there were other pastas pesto on green fettucine, a pasta sauce made with delicious, lean sauage and peppers, and fresh, well-made homemade lasagna.
Pasta e fagioli, that simple soup made of pasta and bean

FRANK'S TRATTORIA

371 First Ave., between 21st and 22nd Streets (212) 677-7140 / 7141; (212) 677-2991

WHY: Homey Italian.

WHEN: 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily. HOW MUCH: $2.75 to $15.50,

One night a friend had a special of liver with onions and bacon, and the liver was pink as ordered. Alongside dinner specials, besides bread and salad, there are generous plates of vegetables — one night sauteed potatoes and carrots. These little e.rtas keep people coming back to Frank's.

During one dinner, Frank Pino stopped by our table. On the menu, it says, "The original Frank is back," and we asked him what that meant. (After all, Frank's has been here, or nearby on 20th Street, for 30 years.) He explained that he had been in Spain starting another restaurant. Spain? we said. Yes, he said, it's my wife who is Italian.

Fried calamari, tentacles and all, was light and delicious, and clams posilipo with a forthright, garticky sauce, were so fabulous we used bread to mop up every last smidgen.

Linguine was topped with marinara sauce and fresh, plentiful seafood, including nicely cooked lobster, for one daily special. Luscious little lamb chops, simply done with brown pan juices, were superb, and deep-brown osso buco was finished with wine in the sauce and served with gnoci. Nuggets of flavorful, on-the-bone chicken scarpariello was satisfyingly lemony and garlicky. These are not startling dishes, just very good renditions of comforting classics.

For dessert, an Italian-style Napoleon, layers of pastry and ream and as light as the proverbial air, was wonderful. There's good-quality tartife, spunctioni and tortoni, too. No new coffee bar serves better espresso, and at Frank's, Sambuca gratis is the rule, rather than the exception.
